The U.S. Marine Corps Band from the Corps' Logistics Base in Albany, Ga., was a real crowd-pleaser at this year's Sorghum Festival. Shown here in Saturday's parade, the band later appeared in concert at the amphitheater at Old Mill Park. The band was truly a highlight of the festival and gladly performed two encores for the appreciative crowd. See parade pics page 9-B. Special meeting fails to resolve impasse over board appointees

Magistrates again call for reappointment of existing water board

In response to a letter from County Attorney Steve O'Connor, Judge Executive Tim Conley called a special fiscal court meeting Monday in an effort to break a stalemate with the court over the judge executive's nominees for seats on the county water district board.

In a meeting held last week, four magistrates — Darrell Patrick, Denzil Potter, Darris Smith, and Mike Gevedon—turned deaf ears to a proposal by Conley to expand the water board to represent each of the county's five magisterial districts. Calling instead for the reappointment of the present three-member board, whose terms expire Oct. 3, the four magistrates refused to second a motion by Magistrate Frankie Spencer to approve Conley's nominees, one of whom is Jack Cline, a member of the present board.

Others nominated for the board by Judge Conley are Dr. Bill Holbrook, Mrs. Hollie Litteral, Donnie Gunnell, and Tony Campbell.

In a letter to Conley and the five magistrates following last week's meeting, O'Connor proposed a compromise that in effect, would leave the present water

Bids awarded for $328,785 in road repair in Morgan

JACKSON, Ky., Sept. 21 — Governor Ernie Fletcher and Acting Transportation Secretary Bill Nighbert last week announced the awarding of four contracts totaling $328,785.41 for highway improvements in Morgan County.

All four projects involve repairing flood-damaged roads for the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

board in place with two new members to be appointed by the judge executive.

In his letter, O'Connor suggested that since present board member Jack Cline seems acceptable to both Conley and the four magistrates, an agreement be reached for the magistrates to appoint two members—presumably Earl Reed and Jack Howard, the other two board members whose terms are expiring—and Conley appoint two members from his original list of nominees.

Conley responded by reminding the court of O'Connor's previous admonition that by law, it is the judge executive's prerogative to nominate board members of his choosing, not the magistrates', and he made it clear that he did not intend to relinquish that responsibility.

He told the magistrates, however, that he would consider whatever objections they may have with his nominees if they would submit them to him, in writing, within seven days.

After a motion by Magistrate Spencer to approve Conley's nominees failed to get a second, Conley, invoked his power as a member of the court to second the motion himself, forcing a vote.

With Conley and Magistrate Spencer voting yes, and the other four magistrates voting no, the motion failed.

If the impasse cannot be resolved by the fiscal court, the state Public Service Commission is charged with appointing members to serve on the board within 90 days. Conley noted that he has been advised by legal counsel that, contrary to the opinion of the county attorney, the three members whose terms expire Oct. 3 cannot continue to serve until a new board is appointed.

Citing legal counsel, Conley said, "Upon the expiration of those four-year terms, a vacancy will be created divesting those existing board members of their authority."

Big ones

Cameron Mancini, 18 months old, and his dad, Michael Mancini of Ky. 172 are proud of their big pumpkins. These two from their patch weigh an estimated 130 -150 lb. each. The seed for these giants was purchased at Wal-Mart in Paintsville. Cameron's dad said his son liked to help him care for them. The little guy particularly enjoyed pulling weeds and strewing fertilizer. This was the Mancinis' first time to raise pumpkins and they say they plan to raise another patch next year.

Bd. to open bids for new school today

The Morgan County Board of Education will meet today at 2:00 p.m. to open bids for the new elementary school to be built on U.S. 460 near Greear.

The board earlier this month rejected bids submitted for the project after the bids came in above estimated $8,250,000 cost.

Superintendent of Schools Joe Dan Gold said that by switching to less expensive building materials and other cost-cutting measures, architects hope to shave up to $300,000 off the new bid proposals. There are no plans to reduce the size or the layout of the structure, he said.

In addition to awarding a contract for the new building, the board also plans to approve a new working budget for the year at today's meeting.

Gold said the board is keeping a close eye on fuel costs and is considering ways to conserve on diesel fuel in the event prices increase significantly as a result of damage from the two hurricanes to oil production and refining facilities in the Gulf states.

"So far, we haven't experienced any shortages, although diesel costs have gone up 20 percent," Gold said.

One measure being considered by the board to cut down on fuel use will be to cut back on the number of student field trips if availability becomes an issue, he said.

Barring major fuel shortages, the likelihood of the board switching to a four-day school Signups are needed now for county's Phase 11 Water Pjt.

30 miles of new lines contingent on $50,000 in local tap-on fees

The Morgan County Water District is accepting signups for the Phase 11 Line Extension Project. The district must have $50,000 in local tap-on fees in the bank before USDA Rural Development will release funds approved for the project.

The following roads are to be considered for water line extensions if there are enough signups from these areas: Ky. 2498, Ky. 705, Rt. 844, Murphy Fork Road, Nickell Branch Road, Pekin Road, New Cummer Road, Ky. 3345, Ky. 205, Denniston Road, Ky. 976, Barnett Ridge Road, Peyton Ridge Road, and Vest Branch.

"Tap-on fees are currently $590 and we will work with individuals who wish to make arrangements to pay this fee in installments," said Water District Manager Barbara Stac, "but we must have $50,000 from tap-on fees in the bank before this project can begin."

"The water district is currently working with funding agencies to get all the required paperwork submitted and we hope that construction can begin by early spring," Stacy said.

Persons interested in signing up for water service are invited to stop by the district office at 408 Prestonsburg Street to review the project map to see if they are in the project area.

Lion to open new facility in Wolfe County in Nov.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Congressman Hal Rogers (Ky.-5) announced this week that Lion Apparel of Dayton, Ohio, intends to locate a major distribution facility in Wolfe County. Lion expects to make a $5 million investment of equipment and software in the renovated facility that will bring 30 new jobs to the area.

"I am pleased to welcome Lion Apparel to Wolfe County," said Rogers. "The location of this distribution facility will result in new jobs and investment that will provide an economic boost for the area. Lion Apparel is a solid corporate citizen and I appreciate the investment they are making in the people and communities of Eastern Kentucky."

Steve Schwartz, President of Lion, said, "We are pleased to have worked with Congressman Rogers."

Five members of Red River Church help with hurricane relief effort in Alabama

Shortly after Hurricane Katrina struck the Gulf Coast, David and Mildred Warren of Fallen Road, Hazel Green, received an email through the Church of the Nazarene's Compassionate Ministries expressing the urgent need for volunteers to serve food, pass out clothing, fill out forms, etc., to the destitute victims forced to evacuate their homes in the wake of the hurricane. The Warrens had been watching CNN as most of us have in the past few days and felt a need to do something. They responded to the 1-800 number, packed their bags and left the next morning for Monroeville, Alabama, a suburb of Mobile.

Mildred told her parents, Herman and Loretta Nickell, also of Fallen Road, about her excitement of being able to serve and the Nickells said, "We want to go, too!"

The four of them arrived in Monroeville on a Wednesday evening at a distribution center on the Gulf Coast and worked almost nonstop for 10 days helping the displaced evacuees. The four from Wolfe County were given room and board by the Monroeville Church of the Nazarene. David is a retired Nazarene pastor from Florida but now divides his time between Lakeland, Fl., and their home in Wolfe County.

Herman Nickell, left, and wife Loretta, right, and Mildred and David Warren, members of the Red River Community Church, spent 10 days in Alabama assisting victims of Hurricane Katrina. David Dunn, not shown, another member of the church, also helped bring aid to victims in Louisiana.

The Sunday before these people left, their church, the Red River Community Church, and its pastor, Rev. Charlie Glover, took up a free-will offering for the Katrina Disaster Fund and collected $2,500. After the Warrens and the Nickells arrived in Alabama, Pastor Glover called them about giving money to the center where they were donating their time. He wanted to be certain that the victims got the money and not some organization that kept 25%.

The money was wired electronically to the church's bank account. The week the Red River Church group was in Alabama, over 400 families were placed in apartments, homes, trailers, or

Camp for troubled youth proposed in Wolfe County

A Wolfe County business is attempting to create an outdoor camp for troubled youth that run afoul of the law. Jeff Kennedy, of the Outdoor Wilderness School and Hostel and True North Outfitters, located at Pine Ridge, discussed his interest in creating the camp at the July UNITE meetings. Kennedy said such a program would be the first of its kind in Eastern Kentucky and would offer troubled kids an alternative to jail time.

Kennedy said such a program would work like this: Judges in Eastern Kentucky will identify kids whose crimes warrant serious attention. Rather than sentencing them to jail (the juvenile justice cabinet facility), the Judge will give them the option of attending the outdoor camp. The funds to pay for the program will come from state, federal or non-profit sources and will cover several weeks living in the outdoor area of the Red River Gorge. Kids will learn how to set up a camp, work on meaningful confidence building exercises, and will perform community service such as cleanups of outdoor dumps. All the while they will complete their assigned school work to ensure they do not fall behind.

Kennedy said such a program offers a benefit to kids who seem intent on destructive behavior and for whom detention seems to be the last option. "Often times kids habits and values are set in stone at this age. Changing these habits requires a life altering experience, such as living outdoors under professional supervision for a few weeks." Kennedy said this type of program has proven successful in other states and has recently been the subject of a TV

MY PRAYER

It's me again Lord a knocking at your door. Just another thankful prayer to add to the one before I sit and watch the stars, Lord, in the darkest sky. I sit and count the minutes Lord, as they go by. Just another soldier, Lord, watching my year go by. Thank you, Lord, for this blessing of this another day. May your blessing end this war, for this is what we pray and if before the morrow, Lord, I should have to die, let it be for thee Oh! Lord for this what I cry. Watch over us Lord, for yet another day, that your will be done, Lord for this in Christ I pray.

Amen

That was the vote count when the Senate Judiciary Committee confirmed Supreme Court Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg and Stephen Breyer in the 1990s., and it should have been the vote for John Roberts yesterday, instead of 13-5. The two Bill Clinton appointees are every bit as liberal as Judge Roberts is conservative, and they were just as unforthcoming during their confirmation hearings on how they would vote on specific cases.

Instead, five Democrats voted "no" yesterday. Chuck Schumer, Dick Durbin and Ted Kennedy claimed they didn't know enough about how Judge Roberts would rule on specific precedents. Joe Biden was, well Bidenesque. Dianne Feinstein apparently thought the candidate had been nominated for Chief Family Man instead of Chief Justice. "Rather than talking to me as a son, a husband, a father—which I specifically requested he do—he gave a very detached response," she said yesterday. Imagine that: A judge who is restrained.

Senator Feinstein has also said repeatedly she cannot support a nominee who doesn't support Roe v. Wade. So on the one hand liberals say they want President Bush to appoint Justices who aren't committed to a political agenda. On the other hand, they're opposing Judge Roberts because he wouldn't commit to fulfilling a specific political agenda, namely theirs. The lesson for Mr. Bush is that he should nominate the best conservative he can find for the next Court opening, because there's going to be a fight no matter who it is.

Shocking news for consumers

Kentucky's low electric rates are in jeopardy, report says

By Mark R. Chellgren
Associated Press
Reprinted From
The Lexington Herald-Leader

FRANKFORT — Increased competition, federal regulatory changes, interstate demand, renewed state taxing efforts and even trees are all threats to Kentucky's continued enjoyment of the lowest electric rates in the nation.

But Kentucky utilities must build more generating capacity to accommodate more demand in the state by 2025, according to a report and study by the Kentucky Public Service Commission.

Largely because of Kentucky's vast coal reserves, utilities built huge generating stations to take advantage of the cheap nearby fuel. While many of those stations are aging — 35 years and more in some cases — they still produce 95 percent of the state's electricity.

The PSC study reported that the average retail rate for electricity in Kentucky in 2005 is 4.47 cents per kilowatt hour, which is 40 percent below the national average rate of 7.52 cents. There are about 1.8 million customers for those utilities, with more served by 30 municipal electric systems and the Tennessee Valley Authority.

The report also attributed some of the low rates to Kentucky's statutory system that regulates the price utilities are allowed to charge for retail electricity. While some states have moved toward a more competitive system in which customers may pick and choose some utility service, the PSC said the current system, in which some utilities have effective monopolies in some service areas, has also helped limit prices.

"This report in large measure reinforces what we already know — that Kentucky is fortunate to have a robust electric generation, transmission and distribution system that delivers power dependably at very low cost," PSC Chairman Mark David Goss said in a news release accompanying the report. "But it also notes that Kentucky must continue to invest in its electric infrastructure while adapting to regulatory and technological changes."

The report, Kentucky's Electric Infrastructure: Present and Future, said the state will need generating capacity for about 7,000 megawatts by 2025, or about 10 good-size power plants.

Some of that generating capacity is already planned, according to PSC spokesman Andrew Melnykovich.

If there is an issue looming on the horizon, it has to do with transmission and the federal government moving to regulate or deregulate utilities.

Kentucky's power grid is actually seven interconnected systems that are designed to ship power around the state, but it is limited in how much electricity it can carry out of the state, particularly north and south. Federal rules are promoting the shifting of power on the wholesale market.

"While additional transmission interconnections are not needed for Kentucky's utilities to reliably and economically serve their customers, improving these interconnections may make it more feasible for Kentucky's utilities to increase off-system sales and for independent power producers to locate in Kentucky," the PSC report said. "There is much debate concerning how to allocate the costs of such improvements"

A federal law that took effect in August could designate transmission lines through Kentucky as having special significance and leave the regulation to federal authorities.

In other words, Kentucky Revenue Department has started imposing sales tax on transformers, with one utility reporting it received a back tax bill for almost $2 million. "The increase in taxes assessed to regulated electric utilities will increase the cost to serve customers and will eventually result in higher rates," the report said.

And then there's the foliage factor.

Kentucky has no regulations on keeping trees and other vegetation trimmed in utility rights of way that crisscross the hills and mountains.

Utilities oppose such standards, largely because property owners don't want them.

"The Commission recognizes these difficulties, but is concerned that the reluctance of some property owners to allow proper trimming of their trees lessens the reliability of entire distribution systems," the report said.

SORGHUM FESTIVAL MUSIC CHANGE

For the first time in festival history, the music was all located at the Old Mill Park this year. What a nice change, since the park was designed to accommodate music and crowds. This also made it easier to see all the bands without a schedule conflict of missing a favorite band at the park while trying to see a favorite on the street. It also allowed easier movement around the Main Street tent.

As always with change such as this was, there are a few glitches to be worked out. After talking with Fat Man Sound System personnel, Lanny Franklin and Bill Hunter, chairmen for the musical events at the festival, things should run a little smoother next year. The delays between the band performances will be less or none next time. The sound system had to be changed between country music and bluegrass. The schedule will be Friday for country, Saturday for bluegrass and gospel on Sunday, thus avoiding delays.

All was still "A Job Well Done" by all those who helped. Thanks, guys, on a job well done!

A Fan of the music,

CONCERNED ABOUT COURT ACTIONS

I would like to respond to the actions of the Morgan County Fiscal Court. For many years, Morgan County did not have rural water; we have been fortunate to have had water lines running from the city of West Liberty to various areas outside the city limits, but on a very limited basis.

In the last 10 to 12 years, we have seen an increase in rural water lines being run from different locations to many parts of the county. In some instances, the water line comes from different county water districts. Rowan Water serves the Blairs Mills section; Elliott County Water serves the Wrigley area. Menifee County Water serves some areas of Ezel.

I know that the water board in the past and present has worked hard to provide a safe water system that runs efficiently in all areas of our county.

It stands to reason that had we had a board that was representative of all the magisterial districts in the past, we would have had every citizen in the county represented. With that representation comes the responsibility of allowing the voting public the voice of all citizens of Morgan County.

Why would our Fiscal Court even think of not allowing all of us to have equal representation on this board? Why would they go to the lengths that we read about in last week's paper to block a move that would have and will have a positive effect on the lives of all the people of Morgan County?

This isn't big time politics; this is people from our own community supposedly representing us. We need that voice!

I believe that this court has decided that the people of Morgan County are going to set back and let a few politicians dictate what they feel is best for all the citizens of this county. This goes beyond party politics. This, as my granddad would have said, "runs on the rules of contrariness."

The Judge's Corner

By Tim Conley
Judge Executive

Hello again from The Judge's Corner. You know when The Sorghum Festival has arrived that summer is gone and winter is just around the corner. We always enjoy the festival so much, it was wonderful to see all of the folks visiting and enjoying all of the wonderful crafts and food again this year.

Our question is: How do we report non life-threatening emergencies after hours, such as downed trees, water line breaks, etc.

The answer is: The 911 surcharge that you pay on your telephone bill each month takes more than 911 emergency calls. There is also an office created just for these types of non-emergencies; the number to call is 606-743-4385. There is a dispatcher on duty twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week that knows who to call, how to locate the local officials, and the proper person to contact in any situation.

I. B.'s Column

IS IT SOMETHING IN OUR WATER?

I usually have to work about all the time, but last Friday I took my wife to work and sat around the Sorghum Festival and listened to everything talked from politics to football.

Well, I'm not gonna talk about politics, I'm gonna talk about football. I was surprised to hear almost everyone say there's no need to go to the game tonight because Morgan County don't have a snowball's chance of winning. There was talk of five starters out, and even if they were all healthy, we still wouldn't win because Russell was that dominant and powerful.

And I thought, this is bull! We've not even played them yet, and the people in our town had already drove the nails in our football team's coffin. Our boys had only lost one game and that's not fair.

And then I remembered that Morgan County is notorious for never having a great football program except for maybe one year in 10 and the great season Coach Wood put together last year.

I wondered why is that? What makes every school in the state better than us, and do the people of Morgan County expect to lose? Is there a genetic football missing link that is in the drinking water? Something that says "you can't win" or "you're not supposed to win" against a certain school? Whatever it is, it don't seem to affect other schools in the state.

When I was in high school a long time ago the coach told us we would lose every game, and guess what? We did. I've been living with that all my life. You wouldn't think that would affect a person his whole life, but it did. I've been testing myself every day for 40 years to see if I'm that loser that was stamped on me after that season.

Looking back, that losing season was probably the best thing that ever happened to me. I was a little skinny kid that couldn't even remember all those complicated plays, who got run over every play. But I guess when you get run over enough it makes you tougher.

Citizens can go online to find school information

As children in West Liberty embark on another school year, this is as good a time as ever for citizens to ask themselves whether they know as much as they think they know about their kids' schools. How are students performing in reading and math? How do those proficiency rates compare to other schools in the state? How much is the district spending per student compared to districts with similar demographics? How about compared to the state average? And how does the class size of schools in the area stack up against those of other schools around the state?

They are all important questions because their answers can help identify local educational challenges, and produce praise for students and teachers when outstanding results are uncovered.

The good news is that a lot of school data is readily available online. Parents can turn to the state department of education website, for example, to find proficiency rates on standardized tests. Those interested in even more robust data and the ability to compare a school or school district's performance with other schools or compare performance over time can turn to the independent SchoolMatters.com. The free site can provide users with a wide array of data and analysis provided by Standard & Poor's, the company well known for its impartial bond ratings, market indices and equity research.

Want to know what your school district spends per student, what that money is spent on or how much new money is being allocated to the classroom compared to state and county averages?

A few clicks on the site will tell you. The site also reveals student proficiency levels, demographic and classroom profile data.

How about a measure of "return" on the money spent to achieve a given level of student performance? Standard & Poor's developed two unique indicators, the Return and Spending Index (RoSI) and the Performance Cost Index (PCI), to tell users. Moreover, easy to use tools facilitate comparisons between local schools and those in other parts of the state.

Certainly all of this data does not tell parents everything that is happening inside a classroom. Only by visiting a school, talking with teachers and sounding out other parents can one get a full sense of a school's learning environment. However, examining objective sources of data can provide parents and community members with the knowledge base necessary to make better-informed decisions about their schools.

SchoolMatters was developed by the National Education Data Partnership, a collaboration among the Council of Chief State School Officers, Standard & Poor's School Evaluation Services and the CELT Corp. The partnership is funded by The Broad Foundation and the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation.

Adkins, Young break down Devil defense with touchdown runs

By David Patrick

Forced to play without starting quarterback Alex Collins and running back Brandon Allen—who were both sidelined with injuries—Morgan County took Russell deep into the fourth quarter before falling to the district’s top ranked team, 35-14, last Friday at Herdman Field.

After a scoreless opening quarter, Red Devil running back Justin Potter posted touchdown runs of four and 50 yards, respectively, as Russell built a 14-0 lead early in the second quarter. But Randy Wood’s team had an answer on a beautiful option pitch from quarterback Zeke Hall to Devan Adkins, who avoided a tackler and streaked down the right sideline for a 30-yard touchdown run. The Cougars would then pull even when Derrick Young broke loose for an impressive 65 yard scoring run, tying the game at 14 with only 3:05 remaining in the first half. However, Russell managed to retake the lead on a 45 yard scoring strike from Tommy Brown to Kasey Clark as the Devils closed the half with a 21-14 lead.

Early in the third quarter the Cougars threaten as Zeke Hall managed a 33 yard run to put his team into Russell territory. Interestingly enough, that play prompted a Russell defender to scream at his teammates, “Come on, this is Morgan County for goodness sake!”

And yes, while it is Morgan County, it’s certainly not the same Cougar team of years passed, which Russell and everyone else in the region has long since concluded. And though the Cougars failed to score on the drive, they continued to earn the respect of the most worthy of opponents. Even after the game, long-time Russell coach, Ivan McGlone, admitted that Morgan is no longer a pushover.

“We were forced to abandon our original game plan on defense in order to keep them from moving the football,” McGlone said.

With a late 28-14 lead, Russell did earn some breathing room with just under six minutes remaining in the fourth quarter on Chad Edwards’ 24 yard scoring run. From there, the Red Devil defense continued to keep Morgan out of the end zone as Russell closed out a hard earned 35-14 victory.

For the game, Morgan was again led in rushing by Derrick Young, who carried 14 times for 73 yards and a touchdown. Quarterback Zeke Hall picked up 34 yards on eight touches. Devan Adkins added 31 yards on four carries and a score.

Russell was paced by a 50 yard, two-touchdown effort by Justin Potter, who left the game by ambulance with a leg injury during the second half.

Anyway, whether you’re playing football, basketball, or baseball, you’re training every day, two or three hours, and it’s hard and it tests character. ese boys ain’t doing it just to pass the time. And you know what? Most athletic programs make money for the schools. During the Sorghum Festival, the stands are totally full and there are huge lines at the concession stands. The boosters clubs make most of the money for the teams to buy meals, for boys and girls to travel to out of town games.

And how much money are our football and basketball coaches paid? In Morgan County, very little in comparison to other places. I don’t know if it’s true, but I’ve been told that some of the schools we compete against pay their coaches $10,000. If this is true, it’s no wonder that we can’t keep a football, basketball, or baseball coach.

Anyway, I’d like to know how much our coaches make compared with other schools in Kentucky. We pay a lot of school taxes and these athletes are making money for the school.

Athletics teach success, and believe you me, whether you like it or not, in the game of life, it’s not just how you play the game, it’s whether you win or lose.

If we can pay a superintendent a five or six-figure salary, we should be able to pay a coach $10,000 to teach our children how to win. We’ve got great coaches. Let’s put some money out there and keep them.

I’m tickled to death that our football team didn’t listen to what everyone was saying and went out and played a good game Friday night, even though Russell is a sure-enough powerhouse team. Go, Cougars!

The View from Here

Brenda Campbell

I am tired of Katrina! Don't get me wrong, I have sent my donation and I hope to do something more tangible, but the media has milked this story for all its worth. Personally the award for cheapest shot goes to whoever said, "George Bush doesn't like black people." I have to agree with Laura Bush on this one. It is a ridiculous statement. Racist comments like this one skirt the issue. Why didn't Mayor Nagin have adequate food and water at the Super Dome and Convention Center? Why weren't people with no means to leave New Orleans offered mass transit? Why weren't prisoners transported to other jails farther north and not released to prey on the innocent?

In the future I think it would be wise to elect officials based on qualifications and character not those who give welfare handouts and political patronage.

People who hated oppression founded our country. They suffered great hardships and left loved ones behind because they believed in basic freedoms. Each day found them searching for food, fighting the elements and burying the dead. They didn't give up, not against Britain, nor Germany, nor Japan. This dislike of oppression is bred into us, the descendants of these pioneers, and it sends us into the world to fight injustice wherever it raises its ugly head.

Hard work and suffering gave our forefathers strength and courage. They had values and relied on themselves and each other if there were disasters and there were plenty! Somewhere along the line we have decided that the government should take care of all our problems. I fear that our inbred hatred of oppression is being vanquished by a much more sinister gene. That gene being government induced dependency and the inability to make rational decisions when confronted with difficult situations. The government cannot protect us from bad things. Homeland Security does not make me feel safer. It is just more bureaucracy.

I cannot imagine the devastation on the Gulf Coast. I think we all know that government agencies fell short of what they should have done, but number one on the chain of ineptness goes to the mayor of New Orleans. He had no viable plan! Second award for clumsy performance goes to the governor of Louisiana. Who would say to hungry, thirsty fearful people that they "just needed to endure a little more?"

We will learn many things from Katrina: the need to be prepared with credible evacuation plans, the need for better cooperation and communication between state and federal agencies and the importance of responding quickly to an emergency. Unfortunately we have also learned that forty years of public assistance destroys man's ability to take charge and solve problems. Self-reliance is a great virtue.

Park's 93rd Birthday Celebration

On September 3, 2005, Park Lykins celebrated his 93rd birthday with family and friends on the front lawn of his home on Hwy. 1000, West Liberty. His actual birth date is September 4, but his family always celebrates it on the Saturday of the Labor Day weekend with a cookout. This time, the main food source was the fish (deep fried, of course) caught in Cave Run Lake by his youngest son, Hershel, and wife Jenny.

As usual, though, there was lots of other good home-cooked food, including a beautiful birthday cake provided by his much beloved daughter-in-law, Jenny.

Park (seated) is pictured above with his seven children who were all there again for this special occasion. Seated beside him is his youngest daughter, Sharon, who resides in Cortland, Ohio. Standing, from left, are his daughter Phyllis, who lives in Burke, Va.; daughter, Jewell, and son Bobby, both of whom live in Warren, Ohio, and sons, Gene, Jackie, and Hershel, who live near him on White Oak.

Park is a truly remarkable man and a really wonderful father and grandfather. He has been a great role model for all of his family...never lying, cheating, complaining, nor gossiping about others. His favorite saying to me is, "I'm so proud of all of my children because none of you are envious of one another, and if one of you needs help, then one of the others will be there to do what he/she can." Like I said, he is a truly magnificent human being and I'm so proud to be able to try to follow in his footsteps!!!

Submitted a bit late by his daughter, Phyllis.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

The library is a wonderful and unique place. Step inside and enjoy the quiet surroundings. Choose a book to dispel your loneliness, lift your spirits, banish your worries, and transport yourself into another time and place.

Books literally have the power to change your life. Read about history, science, psychology and many other subjects that can stimulate your intellect and arouse your curiosity. Read about fashion, home repair, art, or cooking and be inspired by the creations of mankind. Escape into a good novel or mystery. Without the power of books, our knowledge of the world is limited.

One immortal book offers beauty, hope and inspiration — more than any other. It is the story of both what has been and what will be...a book of promises fulfilled and fulfillment yet to come. In Job 12:13 we read, "To God belong wisdom and power; counsel and understanding are his."

This is God's Word, the Bible. Read this book and be inspired!

PUBLIC HEARING

The Morgan County Ambulance Service will hold a public hearing in the training room at the Morgan County Ambulance Service, located at 412 Dogwood Lane, on Monday, October 10, 2005, at 4:30 p.m., to hear public comments regarding a general fund real estate tax levy of 6.5 cents and a general fund personal property tax levy of 6.5 cents. This rate is note subject to recall.

These rates represent a 4% increase in anticipated revenues to $143,706.00 over the compensation rate of 6.3 cents, which would produce approximately $148,268.00 in revenues. This increase is necessary due to the raising costs of replacement vehicles, fuel and supplies.

Helping Hands for Animals is a non-profit organization made up of volunteers interested in the welfare of unwanted and stray animals in our community.

The mission of this organization is to reduce the numbers of these animals through spay/neuter programs, adoption programs, and education programs regarding responsible pet ownership. This organization is also working with the county government to establish an animal shelter in this area. All donations and fundraising efforts go for the support of these programs.

The evening will include musical entertainment, a silent auction featuring local artwork, and an Italian meal. We encourage anyone interested in the welfare of animals to support this event. It will not only help support our work, but will be a fun evening.

Helping Hands would also like to take this opportunity to thank all those who have supported this organization, and their mission.

Gratitude

Missionary Benjamin Weir held hostage in Lebanon and imprisoned under miserable conditions for 16 months. In his first interview after his release, he was asked how he spent his time and how he dealt with boredom and despair. His answer stunned the reporters. He simply said, "Count my blessings."

"Blessings?" they responded. "Yes," he explained. "Some days I got to take a shower. Sometimes there were some vegetables in my food. And I could always be thankful for the love of my family."

Sept. 19--Sympathy is extended to those who are bereaved. Get well wishes to the sick and shutins.

Barry and Alpha Clevenger were in Morehead on Monday. it was cool early in the morning but the temperatures shot up to about 90 degrees. Sure was hot.

This coming weekend will be the Sorghum Festival in West Liberty. Since the new highway is now open there probably will be a larger crowd this year. The new highway sure is beautiful and makes it so handy. We can get to West Liberty so much quicker. It sure is appreciated.

Dempsey came Saturday and I cooked his breakfast. He stayed a while with me and got water. So glad he got to visit me. He told me he and Rosie were planning on coming down soon. He wanted me to make homemade biscuits, pork chops and brown eye gravy. I told him I sure would do that.

Barry was Thursday overnight guest and did weedeating and other chores for me. Thanks to him.

Alpha received a card from a good friend, Sophie Blevins, of Grant Park, Illinois. Good to hear from her. She's not been feeling up to par lately. Get well wishes to her. She said Gary had a lot of garden vegetables this summer. May God bless and touch her.

Alpha was walking at Old Mill Park Sunday evening and met up with Reva Crase. We walked together and had a nice talk. She is a nice lady and I've known her for a long time.

Alpha was Sunday guest of Dale, Joy, Jade, and Jared Gevedon, of Ezel. Good to visit them again. She gave me some sweet peppers and hot peppers from her garden. Thanks for the peppers, you all.

Rev. Vernon Lewis wasn't on the radio station this past Sunday and everyone missed his broad cast. I heard that he preached the homecoming at Centerville. I wanted to go to the homecoming there, or Glenn Avenue and I got up too late on Sunday. Sorry I missed the homecoming.

I heard the other broadcast Sunday afternoon and I turned on W.S.I.P. Paintsville and W.S.G.S. Hazard. They played beautiful songs.

Happy birthday to my sweet grandson, Adam Jared Gevedon Sunday, Sept. 25th. May you have many more. You are growing up so fast. It seems only yesterday you were only a baby and now you are tall and grown up. We all love you. His sister is also beautiful and tall and grown up. We love her, too. She is so smart and we are proud of them.

Alpha talked to Janie and Earl and the Courier office recently. I haven't seen or talked to Sue Kinner for a while. Hope you are fine.

I talked to Dora Belle and Earl Kelly in town recently. They were fine.

Alpha talked to Christine Clevenger recently. She was very well. Good to talk to her. She is my neighbor.

Alpha talked to Vicki Dagnan at the park recently. Good to see her and talk to her. She looked good and had lost weight. She is a nice lady and I always loved her as a good friend.

We sure do need a good rain. it's getting so dry and dusty. Hope it rains before the Sorghum Festival. If we'd get some rain maybe the weather would cool down.

Dempsey and Rosie were in Ohio state recently, and also went to Grayson.

Hi Fairy Dean. how are you and your family? For me and my family we are all very well and still alive and trying to do some work every day, but slowing down.

When I take my walks at the park I see such nice and friendly people. Morgan County is a good place to live and raise their families. I have lived in Morgan County and raised my family and lived here in this house since 1955. I think about moving to another location, or moving to town, or somewhere and I cannot stand to leave home. It's been my old home place for so long now. I guess if I ever moved it wouldn't be home to me. I doubt if I would ever be satisfied anywhere else. I'm not as young as I used to be and I may not live very much longer. We never know when our time is up on this earth. I think about that sometimes, why not just stay where I am. It's a hard job to pack up and move and I can't hardly stand to think about leaving my old home place where my children were born and raised and were brought home from the hospital here at my home. That's been a long time ago and all those precious memories are right here at home. Where they grew up and romped and played in the yard and all around the house. I guess I'm sentimental about things and the past and my family. I love little children. When I go to Wal Mart or anywhere else I always stop to talk to the children. They are so sweet and precious and innocent.

I watch W.L.J.C. every night and all the gospel singers. I love Sister Margaret. She is a nice lady.

I talked to Dathal Lewis at Old Mill Park recently. She said she tries to walk all she can and she said she had lost some weight and I told her I try to walk some every day, but sometimes I get so busy I don't take time to walk and I sure can tell the difference. Its best to keep it up every day.

Dempsey called Monday night. He was fine but tired and sleepy.

Alpha attended the Sorghum Festival a little while each day and bought some good corn meal freshly ground. I love the corn bread made with home ground corn meal. It's delicious and everyone eats my corn bread and says its the best they ever ate. All my family really goes after it.

I'm sitting here at Old Mill Park writing my newsletter. A already had started it and never finished it, and I'm trying to get it finished because I'm supposed to get it to The Courier early on Monday.

A large crowd was in attendance Saturday at the festival and the parade was a good one, but the weather was very hot and the children were burning up in the sun. All three days of the festival the sun was hot.

Today, Sept. 25th, is my grandson, Jared Gevedon's birthday. Hope you have many more.

Alpha attended church at Glenn Avenue Church of God Sunday. I thought the service was beginning at 11 o'clock but it was about over when I got there, but I'm glad I tried.

Barry called on Sunday and wanted me to come over. We plan on going to Joy's to visit them on Jared's birthday.

I talked to so many nice people at the festival. A lot of nice and friendly people in Morgan and other counties.

It looks like rain today. Sure hope so. We need a good rain. It's very dry.

GOD'S PRESENCE

I hear the voice proclaim from loftiest of trees, I can hear Him softly whisper in the passing of a breeze. I hear Him gently singing in the rippling of a stream, and feel the warmth of His presence in the dancing of a beam of sun upon the water as it glides across with ease upon a sparkling lake or blue water of the seas. I can sense His power in the thunder and the lightning. Oh, so bright, Hear the ringing of His voice in the twinkling stars at night. Yet we not travel up a mountain, nor to the far seas, we can sense His awesome presence in prayer upon our knees.

Junction News

By Kathy Bolin
Sept. 26--Greetings from the Junction.
I hope that everyone enjoyed our Sorghum Festival this past weekend, and guess what? No rain!!! As you all know this does not happen very often usually we always have rain. I did visit the booths on Friday, and Saturday I went to the parade. I was showered with lots of candy from many of the children who know me. I did not go on Sunday, just because I was too tired.

On Friday I also drove over our new highway. It felt strange, kind of like when you are away from home and driving a different route than usual. I kept thinking now am I going the right way, or am I going to get lost. I did take my time and enjoyed the view. It will be a very scenic route for visitors as they drive in and out of our community.

I forgot a few important births in last week's article. One, proud parents Terry and Tracy Vest welcomed a baby girl into their household on September 13th, Aradyn Layne Vest, weighed 7 lbs and 8 ozs. Brother Brad had been hoping for a sister and he got his request fulfilled. congratulations! Also, Boyd and Judy Hill are the proud grandparents of their first granddaughter, Taylor Rose. Parents are James Brian and Lisa Hill.

While I am on the topic of babies, there will be a couple more births coming in the near future. Leigh Ann Wireman and husband, Terry, will be expecting a daughter in December. This will be their second child; brother Derrick, age 4, will be welcoming his new sister. Also, Chad and pam Ross are expecting their third child this coming spring. The new infant will be welcomed by sisters, Abigail and Alison. Both mothers are my co-workers at East Valley Elementary School.

Neighbor Peanut Wright is down at Central Baptist Hospital in Lexington. Peanut went into the hospital to have a tumor removed from his stomach, while he was there they found blockage in his arteries. He is now in the cardiac unit for observation.

Church News: Williams Creek Elk Fork Community Church will be having a garage sale this coming Saturday at the church. Then the following Sunday we will be having our all day gospel singing, and that evening we will start revival with Denny Cantrell from Sidney, Ohio, giving the nightly devotion. Please try to attend and fellowship with us.

The death angel was in our area again last week. Kathleen Williams, mother of Pat Williams, of Isonville, died unexpectedly. Pat is also a co-worker at East Valley Elementary. Condolences go out to Pat and her family.

I guess I will finish up with a few birthday wishes. Alma Cantrell, Delphie Manley, David Bailey, and Canisha Adkins all celebrated birthdays last week. Canisha was probably the only in the bunch that enjoyed turning another year older. The others probably would like to start counting backwards.

Morgan County Food Pantry Open House slated Oct. 4

Morgan County Christian Social Services (Food Pantry) has been in operation in Morgan County for four years now, and has provided food and clothing to many people experiencing financial or personal crisis. This organization has been successful in its mission due to the support of our community in donating food items, clothing, household items and money.

Many individuals work hard to see that the center is open to the public two days a week. These include social service agency people, and people who volunteer their time and talent.

The volunteers, workers, and Board of Directors of the Food Pantry would like to invite the public to an Open House at the center on Court Street (in the old Post Office Building) on Tuesday, Oct. 4, from 4:00 to 6:00 p.m. This will give anyone who has not had the opportunity to see the center a chance to tour it and ask any questions about our services. Please come by for some refreshments, and to support the Food Pantry.

Thank You!

The thirty-fifth annual Morgan County Sorghum Festival is now history. As we rest up from the big weekend, and all the planning and work that went into the music program in Old Mill Park, we fondly remember all who helped in so many ways to make it all possible.

Our thanks and appreciation to Potter Funeral Home, Porter and Son Funeral Home, Morgan County Sheriff's Department, Morgan County Ambulance Service, West Liberty Mayor Robert Nickell, Pepsi Cola Company, John Motley, Mike Howard, Bill Trusty, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Connolly, all of the bands that participated in the entertainment, Fat Man Sound, and so many others that worked diligently to see that the weekend went off smoothly.

This was the first time that all of the musical entertainment was in Old Mill Park, and for the most part everything went well. The weather was great all three days and the crowd seemed to enjoy the music. We will continue our efforts to make next year's entertainment even better.

Many thanks,
Lanny Franklin and
Bill Hunter,
Co-Chairmen

A Funny
The businesswoman ordered a fancy floral arrangement for the grand opening of her new outlet, and she was furious when it arrived adorned with a ribbon, which read, "May You Rest in Peace." Apologizing profusely, the florist finally got her to calm down with the reminder that in some funeral home stood an arrangement bearing the words, "Good Luck in Your New Location."

Tuff new crop of men emerging at Morgan's most famous wide spot in the road

New mud wrestling king crowned at Wrigley

You know, I pride myself in being tuff. I know I'm an old man, but I take "staying fit" seriously and sometimes put myself through some degree of torture to remain fit, because I feel like I ain't as tuff as I can be.

But you know, this all started out about the pond, Arson and Peggy's Waterin' Hole, and I don't know for the life of me how it got to be about me. But on September 5, 2005, in northern Morgan County in a small spot in the road called Wrigley, 125 men and women came to see me get my hind end kicked and, son, I'm here to tell you they got their money's worth.

Seventeen men entered the Men's Mud Wrestling and Arson's Enemies, that's right, not Arson's Army, stepped in and gave Arson's Army a lesson in how the mud wrestling game is supposed to be played.

Usually, the Generals dominated, certainly on Memorial Day when Arson won 2nd and absolutely on July 4th when Arson won again. So when Labor Day came around it was almost a given that Arson and his Generals would win again.

There was even a rumor going around that the matches were fixed, but that didn't stop the crowd. They were there a waitin' at 12 o'clock and, fixed or not, they were a gonna judge for themselves.

You know, I'm proud to live in Morgan County and especially proud to live in Wrigley. When I think about Wrigley I think about tuff. I think about the men that came before me — Junior Wilson, Berl Wilson, Stanley Wilson, Randall Ratliff, Frankie Ratliff, Estill Howard, Jimmy Dixon — and boys my age in their younger days — Larry and Dudley Lykins, Larry Easterling, and Ronnie Lewis.

These men were all my heroes a growin' up and you know what, well, son, let me tell you, tuff never dies and neither does respect. I wouldn't be who I am right now if most of the aforementioned men hadn't beat the hell out of me when I was a teenager.

Berl Wilson whipped me every time he saw me and Junior Wilson taught me all kinds of wrestling moves and once I beat the bejeebers out of Ronnie Lewis's fists with my head. So I come from a long line of tuff redneck hillbilly hard nosed Wrigilians.

Today, we're gonna talk about Arson's Enemies, but before we do, I feel like I need to give a big high 5 to James Wilson, who single-handedly fought off a 310 lb. Brandon Adkins. That probably don't sound so tuff until you realize that James only weighs 134 lb. He gave a valiant effort and they fought for a long time but finally Brandon and Richie Adkins put him out of the pit.

My hat is off to Rando Young, a really tuff Wrigley competitor who sacrificed himself for James in that match. Brandon had James down the whole match but he could not put him out and every time Richie tried to help Brandon, Randy was there to save him. Salute. But finally the inevitable was sure to happen and James was tapped out.

I want to give credit to Matt Davis, a big boy, 340 lb. With four men on him he fought a valiant fight, but in the end, like a wounded grizzly bear, he succumbed to the hounds.

And last but not least, probably the tuffest General I have and the one that's always there at the end, the one that gives his all every time. He's 21 years old and I'm 55 and when I grow up I swear I want to be just like him. Steve O, you're the man.

Now to the match that I was in. I guess the mud wrestling Gods were against us. When the draw was all said and done four Generals were pitted against each other. Hoggie McGuire, Dudley Whitt, Dean Ferguson, and Arson were in a no win situation. Believe you me, folks, there was no production in this match. No matter how we did it, two Generals were gone, or so we thought. But in the middle of the match, Arson, Dudley, and Hoggie teamed up against Dean, and Arson said Dean choked him down twice to almost unconsciousness, but he said that was the only way he was a gonna be put out, cause he wouldn't give up.

Then all of a sudden, Dudley scratches Dean's eye and the match is stopped. Dean steps out of the pit long enough to get looked at and all of a sudden Dean takes a runnin' go and dives on Hoggie's back. Hoggie didn't even see it comin. Hoggie sprains his knee and cuts a 6 inch gash in his leg. The match is stopped and lookin back, Dean should have been disqualified, but he wasn't.

So that left Arson a wrestling Dean, and did I mention Dean almost broke Arson's neck but Arson's got a lot of stamina and finally Arson ends up on top of Dean and his one arm is on Dean's neck and he's trying to put Dean out but Dean's just too strong. About that time Hoggie hobbles over and grabs Dean's arm and puts him out convincingly. Then Dudley puts Dean's other arm out. But the referee, Dean Adkins, don't see it that way. Dean calls a double take down and not only is Dean Ferguson out but so is Arson.

The King of Memorial Day and 4th of July mud wrestling had just been dethroned. But that's not all. Hoggie can't continue to the next round. Three men out and only Dudley Whitt left.

Now it's time to talk about Arson's Enemies. That's right. Brandon Adkins, Josh Adkins, Dustin Havens, P. Tom, and the Head Honcho, the leader of Arson's Enemies, Richie Adkins, who pulled off a coop (or is that couo) so well orchestrated that it was almost genius. Folks, it is really hard to come into someone else's house and take it over, but my hat is off to this hard nosed tuffer than nails — there ain't no other way to put it — Army, that Richie Adkins put together. Hey! They were there to the end and no harder wrestling have I seen at the Waterin' Hole.

The wrestling ended up Brandon out. Then Josh and Richie put out my new best buddy, P. Tom. That left father and son a fightin' each other, and for a while I thought Josh was a gonna take his daddy out. But on this day, old age and cunning overcame youth and skill, and when the mud had settled Richie Adkins prevailed.

Richie Adkins, the new King or Arson and Peggy's Waterin' Hole. History was made on September 5, 2005, and a better and more deserving champion there ain't never been. Oh yeah! Richie won Hoggie McGuire's hat! At least until next year on Memorial Day when it will be up for grabs again. And Lollie Wilson lost her Redneck Flag to the winner, if it wasn't Arson.

As for Arson, he's a working out "on the wheel" all winter. That ole piece of leather won't quit and if these boys don't watch out he'll slip up on them again come spring and I know Hoggie wants his hat back. Don't count out Dudley Whitt. He fought like the Banty Rooster he is. It took three of them to get him out.

There were no losers today at Arson and Peggy's Waterin' Hole. New heroes were born and old ones stood in the shadow of the rising stars, Richie Adkins, Josh Adkins, P. Tom and Brandon Adkins led the way, and who knows who they will inspire to step forward into greatness come spring.

My friend, the winter is long and, like the butterfly that struggles out of it's cocoon, so will someone emerge to greatness to bask in the sunshine in the mud of many colors saying to the world or maybe just the people of Wrigley and Morgan County, "LOOK AT ME! I am the King of Arson and Peggy's Waterin' Hole!"

One thing is for sure, Wrigley is a puttin' out a new breed of men, and right now Richie Adkins is a leadin' the way and there is only one word to describe it. TUFF!

When you walk on this piece of hallowed ground you can feel the presence of the Ghosts of R.J. Odgen, Zeke Hall, Ashley Carroll, Richie Adkins, Josh Adkins, Jason Williams, Steve Fleming, P. Tom, Sheila Perry, Elta Caskey, and Arson. A warning! Walk softly, my friend; you step on my dreams.

Attending the tutoring breakfast were, from left, Jeanee Breenan, RSVP volunteer and beginning this year a tutor at Menifee County Elementary; Diane Smith, RSVP Project Assistant, and a member of the Morgan County RSVP Advisory Board, and Kaye Henry, RSVP volunteer, and President of the Menifee County Homemakers Club, who heads the tutoring program in Menifee County.

RSVP Breakfast Social

The Retired and Senior Volunteer Program was host to a "breakfast social" Wednesday, Sept. 15, at Shoney's restaurant in Morehead. The volunteers from Morgan, Menifee, Bath, Montgomery, and Rowan counties that are involved in the "Great Leaps" tutoring program were invited.

The Retired and Senior Volunteer Program is an agency that sponsors volunteers who are 55 years of age or older, that are interested in doing volunteer activities in non-profit organizations, in the community.

The Retired and Senior Volunteer Program has several focal points that it participates in for community impact; they are education, wellness for senior citizens, and homeland security.

Volunteers are particularly needed to participate in the tutoring program. RSVP supplies the training and the supplies for the volunteers that want to tutor 3rd or 4th grade students in need of extra help with their reading skills. This is done in the schools during school hours at the teachers' discretion.

At this time RSVP has several tutors in Bath, Montgomery, Menifee, and Rowan counties, but only one in Morgan County. If you would like to become a tutor in any of the elementary schools in Morgan County, please contact Robin Dalton at 606-743-1500 or 606-434-7816.

Tips for Managing the Financial Burden of Diabetes

Experts estimate that a person with diabetes spends four times more on healthcare than a person without diabetes. But there are many ways that you can save money without compromising your diabetes management. Some tips:

Save on Prescriptions and Testing Supplies

- Know your health insurance coverage. Your total co-payment may be less if your health insurance coverage allows you to order supplies a few months in advance and all at one time.
- Ask your doctor or pharmacist about generic drugs that are less expensive, but equally effective.
- Check out prescription assistance programs. Many pharmaceutical and test-supply companies offer financial assistance for the uninsured. Visit the American Diabetes Association's Web site (www.diabetes.org) for contact information for companies that manufacture diabetes medications and supplies.
- Buy lancets and test strips in bulk whenever possible. First make sure that you can use the larger amount of test strips before the expiration date.
- Check for special sales, and keep an eye out for discount coupons.
- Store medications and supplies appropriately to avoid spoilage.

Smart Food Shopping

- Organize weekly menus in advance to take advantage of supermarket sales and avoid impulse buying.
- Special "diabetic" or expensive sugar-free foods aren't necessary. A diet rich in unprocessed grains, lean meats, low-fat dairy and fresh vegetables and fruits is healthful—and affordable.
- Check out store brands—they often cost much less than national brands and taste just as good.
- Buy in bulk when practical and when the cost-per-unit makes it a good buy.
- Invest in a session with a professional dietician, nutritionist and/or certified diabetes educator to learn the healthiest way to eat for optimal glucose control.

Economical Exercise

- Do exercise—it helps you lose weight, strengthen your heart and lungs, and control your blood pressure and blood sugar. And improved glucose control lowers the risk of costly diabetes complications.

- Walk! It's one of the best and least expensive forms of exercise. The only equipment you need is a good pair of shoes.
- Stretching is free and helps improve flexibility and prevent injuries.

Conclusion

Diabetes management can be costly. But you can save money by putting in the extra effort to find bargains and hunt down additional resources. Your best resource may be your own diabetes healthcare team—your doctor and your pharmacist. They may have additional suggestions and resources that you may not have considered. Also, reach out to other patients with diabetes through support groups. Not only are support groups free, but other patients can give you the emotional—if not financial—tips to help you to manage all aspects of your diabetes.

Remember, if you have any questions or concerns about diabetes, talk to the pharmacist at a participating Diabetes Shoppe® drug store. As a center of diabetes care, your Diabetes Shoppe® offers the most comprehensive line of products and information available to help you better manage and "live well" with diabetes.

A Quiet Hero: Douglas Howard

By Tony Adkins

As I begin this, we continue in the war against terrorism in Iraq and Afghanistan. Again thousands of young Americans have been sent into harm's way to defend freedom and liberty. There will always be another tyrant lurking in the shadows waiting to rob sovereign nations of the democratic process and to oppress their citizens. If we believe what is written in the Bible we know that there will be wars and rumors of war until the end of time.

During World War II, millions of Americans served on all parts of the globe to restore freedom to the world. Over 500,000 gave their lives in the process. Most of the surviving veterans are now in their 80's and are leaving us at an alarming rate. They have gone about their lives quietly and talked very little about their own experiences but usually will tell of heroic deeds that someone else did. I knew one such man for years as our county agent and insurance representative. He was a friendly, quiet natured man who never failed to speak or meet you with a smile. I sat across the aisle in church from him for years but was not aware of his military service until he had passed away.

Douglas Howard enlisted in the U.S. Army 14 December 1942 at Ft. Thomas, Ky. After entering the service he became a member of the U.S. Army Air Corps. Hundreds of air bases and training facilities had opened across the United States after the beginning of World War II. Doug attended radio operators school at Scott Field, Illinois, aerial gunnery school at Laredo, Texas, and advanced radio school at Reno, Nevada. After initial training and these courses Douglas was assigned to a new base at Pocatello, Idaho, for training as a B-24 bomber crewman in the newly formed 464th Bomb Group.

Training began in early January 1943 and continued into 1944. Douglas fine tuned his skills as a radio operator/gunner and became an integral part of the crew he was assigned to. As training wound down, the ground crews began packing equipment and records in early February 1944. Preparation was made for moving the group overseas. They boarded trains and left for ports on the East Coast where they were assigned to troop transports for the trip across the Atlantic.

B-24 bomber "Home for Christmas"

They left the U.S. on 22 February with their destination unknown to them. Air crews began leaving Pocatello and reporting to Lincoln Army Air Base, Nebraska. Their B-24's were checked out and had long range fuel tanks installed in the bomb bays. Some crews were assigned brand new bombers "with the smell of a new car" one crew member said. The next stop was Morrison Field, Florida, then Puerto Rico, and finally Brazil before heading across the Atlantic. The 464th began leaving Brazil on 5 March 1944 on a heading that would take them to Dakar on the west coast of Africa.

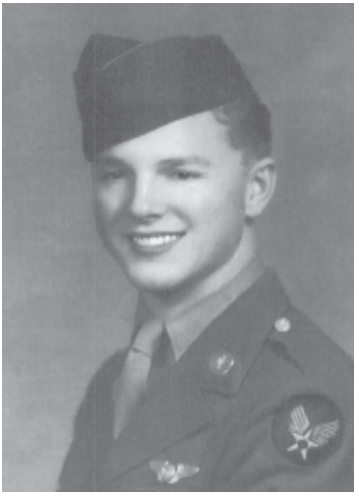

They stayed at Dakar until a new base was completed at Pantanalla, Italy in late April. Four B-24's and eighteen crewmen were lost between Brazil and their new base. Lt. Joseph Kerstukes, the navigator, said that their crew traveled all the way from Idaho to Italy in their originally assigned B-24.

The first mission assigned to the 464th on 30 April was "scrubbed" because of a foul up in navigation. The next mission was on 2 May against rail marshalling yards at Parma, Italy. A collision between two B-24's resulted in the loss of one plane and eight crew members. Thirty six more missions were flown by the group against oil refineries, troop concentrations, and rail facilities through 11 July 1944. Several more B-24's and many crewmen were lost during that time.

On 12 July, the 464th scheduled thirty-seven B-24's to bomb rail marshalling yards at Nines, France. Take off time was set for 0615 hours. A briefing was held in the operations tent at 0400 with the mission route outlined with a red string on the large operations map. After the briefing a breakfast of powdered eggs and milk, Spam, toast and coffee was served before flight time. The air crews were taken to their planes shortly before takeoff time.

T/Sgt. Douglas Howard sat at the radio operator's position on the flight deck of B-24H serial number 42-52357. She had been built in mid-1942 at the Ford Motor Company's Willow Run, Michigan, plant. The plane, known as "Crack Up" by the crew, was piloted by 2Lt. Emmett Drake and 2Lt. Everett Astroff. All systems were checked and a walk around by the pilots confirmed that all was well with their "ship." All crew members went to their assigned positions to await takeoff orders. The four Pratt and Whitney engines came to life on each B-24 and shattered the early morning stillness. A green flare was fired from the control tower signaling a go for the mission. The heavily loaded B-24's strained, rumbled and vibrated as they slowly rolled down the runway. They gradually picked up enough speed and pulled themselves into the air. The temperature steadily fell as they climbed higher and higher. At 30,000 feet the temperature inside the B-24's dropped to minus 50 degrees or lower.

The 464th linked up with 30 B-24's from the 465th Bomb Group at 0725 and headed northwest to the target of the day. The skies were bright blue and clear except for light scattered patches of clouds. Near the target the formation began to encounter heavy flak (antiaircraft fire). All aircraft were able to drop their loads on or near the target, doing extensive damage. The two groups turned south east and headed for their bases. Three planes ran short of fuel and landed at other allied bases. "Crack Up" had taken several hits over the target but the pilots struggled to keep her in the air but the damage and shortage of fuel was too much.

Lt. Drake gave the order to bail out between Ban and their base at Pantanella. "Crack Up" was completely destroyed as she ploughed into the Italian countryside below. All crew members survived with a few sprains and one broken ankle. They made their way back to the base as an intact crew.

Several more missions were flown the rest of July and early August. All crews made their way to the operations tent on 9 August for the daily briefing. The red string pointed from their base to the Tokol Airdrome at Budapest, Hungary. Groans and inaudible comments were heard from the assembled crews. Tokol was heavily defended by flak batteries and German fighters. Chaplain Eastwood led the group in a pre-flight prayer and then they were off to breakfast.

The Lt. Roy Anderson crew had finished their required 50 missions and would not be making the flight. Lt. Drake "borrowed" the Anderson B-24 for the day. It, too, was built at Willow Run in 1943. She carried serial number 4242437 and had the name "Home for Christmas" painted on her nose. The Anderson crew was ready to fly her back to the States for a war bond tour and was not excited about loaning her out.

Doug and the rest of the crew boarded and waited for the signal. Twenty eight B-24's, led by Major William Reddell, took off and headed into hostile territory. There were no mechanical problems or aborts, so a full squadron would bomb the target. The weather was clear all the way to Budapest and no fighters or flak was encountered until they approached Tokol. Flak bursts became "thick enough to walk on" one crew member said. At 1113 hours, sixty seven tons of general purpose bombs were released, causing heavy damage on the airfield. One B-24, "Big Wheeler Dealer" was cut in half by a flak burst. Five crewmen were able to bail out but five were trapped in the flaming wreckage as it spiraled into the ground. All five died and were buried in the town cemetery by the Germans.

"Home For Christmas" took several hits that caused heavy damage. Lt. Drake managed to keep the plane in the air and headed toward their base. Number two engine was shot out and three and four were losing oil at an alarming rate. They had fallen behind and lost contact with the rest of the formation and were alone deep in enemy territory. As they neared the coast of Yugoslavia on the Adriatic Sea, number three and four engines were beginning to overheat from loss of oil. Lt. Drake decided that they would either "ditch" in the sea or turn south for the British controlled island of Vis. The crew voted to try for Vis where a short, crude dirt runway was located for emergency landings only. The navigator, Joseph Kerstukes, charted a course and Lt. Drake changed to that heading.

"Home For Christmas" slowly lost altitude as three and four engines continued to lose power and number one began to overheat from the strain. They were over the Adriatic out of sight of land as dusk began to set in. Doug tried to raise the control tower on Vis but could not reach them. At last the tiny island came into view and the crew prepared for a nearly dead stick landing. Without full power, the B-24 "would glide like a sack of potatoes" one crewman said. The airfield was located in a valley between two mountains. Lt. Drake cleared the first mountain and immediately dropped down several hundred feet and lined up with the runway. A safe landing was made without any injuries to the crew. Lining both sides of the runway were dozens of shot up, wrecked bombers that had made emergency landings after bombing raids. The field was too short for takeoffs, so the bombers remained there until claimed for junk after the war by Yugoslavia.

Lt. Kerstakos said that they were turned over to Yugoslavian partisans and taken across the Adriatic in a small boat. The trip across to Italy took 26 hours. After arriving at Pantanalla, they found the Roy Anderson crew somewhat upset. Instead of flying to the States, they had been assigned to a returning troop transport and a two week sea voyage.

Crews that were rescued or aided by partisans were usually transferred to another theater of operations. If captured they could be tortured and forced to disclose information about partisan organizations. In addition Lt. Drake's crew had completed the required number of missions and was eligible for rotation home. Douglas was transferred to an Army Air Corps field in California and assigned to the Air Transport Command. He spent the rest of the war making trips to and from the Asiatic-Pacific Theater in transport planes ferrying supplies out and wounded back to the States. He was discharged at Patterson Field, Ohio, on 16 October 1945.

Douglas took part in the Southern France Air Offensive, Air Combat operations in the Balkans and the Liberation of the Southern Philippines. He earned the Distinguished Flying Cross, European-African-Middle Eastern Theater Ribbon with three Bronze Stars, Asiatic-Pacific Ribbon with one Bronze Star, Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters, and the Good Conduct Medal. Mrs. Howard said the he was most proud of the Good Conduct Medal.

Douglas was born at Elma, Kentucky, in Johnson County 12 February 1924. He was the son of Stephen and Merzie LeMaster Howard. He was stationed in East St. Louis while serving with the Army Air Corps in 1943. He met Marilyn Stoneking of Hannibal, Missouri while attending the 3rd Baptist Church on 13 March 1943 and they were married 25 December 1945.

Douglas was discharged from the service at Patterson Field, Ohio, on 16 October 1945. Mrs. Howard and their children, Steve, Susan, and Andrea, all live in the West Liberty area. Douglas passed away March 14, 1997.

I am fortunate to have known Doug and to have counted him as a friend. I only wish that I had known more about him and the service he did for our country. He was willing to leave home and risk his life many times to help millions of people regain their freedom. God looked after him and allowed him to return home for many more years of service to our state and county. I know that he would have grinned and said "Oh, it wasn't that big of a deal." His faith in God and dedication was an inspiration to many people at West Liberty Christian Church and our community, especially near the end of his life.

Circuit Clerks Assn. donates $2,500 to Katrina relief fund

FRANKFORT, Ky. — The Kentucky Association of Circuit Court Clerks (KACCC) has donated $2,500 to the American Red Cross to assist the Victims of Hurricane Katrina.

"Our hearts go out to the thousands of people who have lost their homes, jobs, and all sense of stability," said Morgan County Circuit Court Clerk Donna Pelfrey, who presently serves on the Executive Committee of the KACCC and represents the 7th district, which is made up of 22 counties. "The Circuit Clerks of Kentucky wanted to contribute to relief efforts for those displaced by Hurricane Katrina. We decided that donating to the Red Cross would be a good way to show our fellow Americans that we care."

The role of the Circuit Court Clerk is to properly manage records of Kentucky's Circuit and District Courts. Clerks serve all 120 Kentucky counties and comprise the Kentucky Association of Circuit Court Clerks, an organization that is celebrating its 100th anniversary throughout 2005.

Hurricane...

efficiency apartments by the pastor of the Monroeville Nazarene Church using the funds given by the Red River Community Church. THANKS!

Unknown to the Warrens and Nickells, their neighbor, David Dunn, who also attends Red River Community Church, was on his way to Louisiana at the same time, driving a semi-trailer truck loaded with supplies to feed and clothe the prisoners who had to be evacuated from the area. David stated that the mind cannot imagine the devastation and the terrible things that were going on in Louisiana. Trucks were being shot at and hijackings attempted, not to get money or hurt the driver, but to get food and water for their families who were starving in the wake of the hurricane. People, this is America!

At least 40 refrigerated trucks were there to be loaded with bodies that were being collected daily.

Herman and David's job was to help unload trailers loaded with food, water, clothing and paper goods. After the trailers, U-hauls, car trunks and pickup trucks were unloaded of donations being brought in hourly. Mildred and Loretta, sorted the goods. Clothing was sorted into men, women, boys and girls' piles. Then another group would sort by size and place the clothing on shelves or tables. One day, a truck delivered 10,000 loaves of bread, another semi was loaded with nothing but water.

The most rewarding part for them, the Warrens and Nickells said, was being able to give the Katrina victims a large garbage bag and help them fill it up with the things they needed. Their stories were heartbreaking, as people from all walks of life came through those lines with nothing left of material goods in this lives and said, "I never dreamed I'd ever have to beg for food or clothing."

Mrs. Warren said the evacuees swapped stories of what happened to their homes and what they've gone through since they were evacuated, and found comfort in knowing they were not alone. Mrs. Warren said the kids are suffering so much and have really been affected by being isolated and losing touch with neighbors and friends from their schools and neighborhoods.

"We could not get over the fact that as they filled their bags and were offered other things, they'd say, 'No, someone else probably needs it more than I do,'" said Mrs. Warren. She recalled that the victims they assisted did not over-indulge and walked slowly with glassy, watery eyes and a lost look as if they needed someone to guide them."

Hurricane Katrina damaged or demolished nearly half a million homes in three states, four times as many as Hurricane Andrew did when it hit South Florida in 1992. One out of three houses was wrecked or completely wiped out. The victims' stories were unending. The group from Red River Church recalled one lady who had gone back to Bay St. Louis to try to locate her home. She recognized only a part of her roof. Everything was a total loss!

The day she evacuated she had just purchased a new riding lawnmower and pulled it into her garage with it still in the back of her truck, then the police arrived and said, 'This is a mandatory evacuation.' She took three outfits and left town, thinking she would return in a couple of days as usual. When she returned, neither the truck nor mower were to be found.

Many still cannot return home to see what is left. Weeks after Hurricane Katrina struck the Gulf Coast, fallen tree branches, standing water and layers of mud still block vehicles from getting to their neighborhoods.

One evacuee staying in Monroeville went back to Mississippi to see if he had anything left. (He didn't!). He came back so distraught over the people he had encountered sleeping in parking lots and on sidewalks with no means of transportation and who had walked so much that they had sores on their feet. This man, who had nothing left himself, went from store to store begging for bandages, and medicine to go and to give these people for their feet. "He did as Jesus did, bathed and bandaged their hurting feet," said Mrs. Warren. He came back to Monroeville heartbroken, not so much over his own loss but feeling for others' loss.

The next day, this same man arrived at the Red Cross center to try to get some money and saw all the hundreds waiting in line to get inside. Many were hungry and had no water. "We gave them water," said Mrs. Warren, "and this man went back to the shelter where he was staying and personally made 150 peanut butter and jelly sandwiches to take to the victims waiting in line. His wife stated through her tears, 'Something has happened to my husband. Never in his life has he done anything to help others.'"

When this evacuee was stating the dire conditions of the people in Louisiana, Mrs. Warren recalled that the pastor at the shelter called him by name and said, "You know, you're like them; you don't have anything left, either." The man stated, "Pastor Freddie, I have shelter, a cot to sleep on and food to eat."

Mrs. Warren said she worked a couple of days at the Red Cross Center helping to fill out forms for the displaced people. Many could not read or write and spoke no English. She worked through a Spanish interpreter some of the time. Their stay in Alabama was with the evacuees and the said it was their privilege to lend a listening ear and a shoulder to cry on. Their only wish was that they could have done more.

"Times such as this help one to get their priorities straightened out," aid Mrs. Warren. "We're grateful that we five people from Wolfe County and the Red River Community Church could do something. Thanks to all of you for donating and giving funds. We can't all go, but we can pray for these very needy, hurting people."

New Facility...

Hal Rogers, the State of Kentucky, and Wolfe County to bring this new business investment to the Hazel Green location. We have always found Kentucky to be a great business environment and the Hazel Green site will be a showplace for new logistics capabilities that will enhance our customers' readiness to do their job."

Lion is the largest manufacturer of personal protective equipment for fire departments in the U.S. and the world. The Wolfe County distribution facility will serve Lion's two major divisions, the Protective Services Group, which supplies personal protective equipment to the U.S. first responder community, and the LG2 Group, which provides uniforms and equipment to civilian federal and state governmental entities, and to the U.S. military.

Lion will revitalize a 200,000 square foot vacant facility at Hazel Green, formerly occupied by Whiting Manufacturing, with new state-of-the-art final manufacturing, distribution and logistic software systems.

The initial phase of the facility will utilize 50,000 square feet, with the ability to continue to expand as Lion's business grows. The facility is expected to begin operations in early November.

The Kentucky Economic Development Finance Authority assisted in the development of the project. Lion Apparel Inc. is a 107 year old, family owned, global company based in Dayton, Ohio. Through offices in the U.S., Canada, UK, Germany, France, Italy, and Australia, Lion serves the uniform and personal protective equipment (PPE) and logistics requirements of police and fire departments, civilian government agencies, emergency services, and military organizations around the world.

week this year, as some Kentucky schools have done recently, is remote, Gold said. Any savings in fuel costs by switching to a four-day week would be insignificant since school employees' contracts (for five-day work weeks) have already been signed this year and salary costs would have to remain the same, he said.

Donation and a challenge

In the aftermath of the devastation caused by Hurricane Katrina, Mountain Telephone recently donated $25,000 to the local Red Cross. The money will be used for the relief efforts in the Gulf states affected by the hurricane. Byron May, left, president of the local Red Cross chapter, accepts the substantial donation from fellow Red Cross Board member and Mountain Telephone employee, Rick Pelfrey. "Not only is Mountain Telephone aiding in relief efforts, we encourage all our cooperative customers to donate as well," said Pelfrey. "Mountain Telephone will match any donation up to $10 from our customers." For more information on having your donation matched, call 743-3121.

New PRIDE funds are earmarked for water, sewer pjts.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Congressman Hal Rogers (Ky.-5) announced this week that the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) is releasing $9.7 million to the Eastern Kentucky PRIDE program.

The funding, which Rogers included in the federal budget, will be used to design and construct special water and sewer projects, provide community grants for cleanup activities, and provide grants to schools for environmental education programs.

"Thanks to the hard work of students, thousands of volunteers, and community leaders, the PRIDE program is a tremendous success and our region is getting cleaner and becoming a more welcome place to live and visit," said Rogers. "PRIDE is a shining example of what can be accomplished when we pitch in and work together for the greater good."

Eastern Kentucky PRIDE - Personal Responsibility In a Desirable Environment - was created by Rogers and the late General James Bickford, the former Kentucky Secretary of Natural Resources. PRIDE links citizens with the resources of local, state, and federal agencies to clean up the region's waterways, end illegal trash dumps, and promote environmental education and awareness.

Since the creation of PRIDE in 1997, Rogers has secured nearly $175 million for the program. For more information about PRIDE activities in your community, contact the Eastern Kentucky PRIDE office at 606-677-6000.

Grace Baptist Church's Community Gospel Sing which was held September 17, 2005, was a success in every way. The food was good and plentiful and free. In addition to hamburgers, hotdogs with chili, chips, soft drinks, and desserts, a very popular treat... cotton candy and snow cones were given. The children bounced, jumped and rolled to Helping Hands for Animals teaches students about pet care

Helping Hands for Animals, President Vicki Stacy presented an educational program to the Cannel City Elementary students on Tuesday, September 20.

Ms. Stacy talked to the students about responsible pet care, pet adoption, and the problem of stray and unwanted pets. The students were very interested and offered stories about their own pets or experiences with stray pets.

Accompanying Ms. Stacy was one of her adopted dogs, "Hazel," who loves children and attention.

"Hazel" has become the Helping Hands for Animals mascot, she rides a float in the Sorghum Festival Parade each year, and travels with Ms. Vicki to meet and greet everyone at most of Helping Hands for Animals functions.

The students at Cannel City Elementary along with one of the teachers, Mrs. Sara Benton, collected pennies and made donation to Helping Hands for Animals. Ms. Stacy was asked to come and receive the donation, as well as present the educational program. Helping Hands for Animals is grateful for the donation. Ms. Stacy informed the students that the pennies collected would prevent at least two stray dogs or cats from producing more unwanted puppies or kittens. Said Ms. Stacy, "From all of the members of Helping Hands for Animals, we would like to offer a deeply heartfelt thank you to the students at Cannel City Elementary, Mrs. Sara Benton, and Ms. Brenda Whitt.

Helping Hands for Animals is a non-profit organization dedicated to the welfare of stray and unwanted animals in this area. Its mission is to decrease the numbers of these animals through spay/neuter programs, adoptions, education, and eventually by supporting a local animal shelter.

Helping Hands for Animals will be hosting its second annual fund-raiser, "Picnic for the Pups," Saturday, October 8. The event will include: entertainment, dinner, and a silent art auction. For more information contact Vicki Stacy at 606-743-7261 or Robin Dalton at 606-743-3712.

their hearts content on two carnival rides. There was a bag toss game for the older 'children' and there were several different kinds of ball games. At three o'clock, when the singing started the temperature was rather high but by the time the sun sank behind the hill, it was just right.

Some people came to see and hear a specific group or individual sing and some came to enjoy them all. The face of the crowd kept changing and although we didn't get an accurate count, judging from the amount of food we used and the size of the crowd, we had three to four hundred people attend and we thank God for each one.

Each group and each individual singer had something special to offer. The first group to sing was Salvation Rain, they are a young group with awesome talent and they showed their wish to serve the Lord through their music. Grace Baptist's Hands of Praise who performed next always evoke an emotional response in the hearts of everyone and we are very proud of the young people who participate. Ronnie Spriggs combines his beautiful music and his call to preach in an unique way which everyone appreciates. Next was Neil Clark, a young talent who has a very mature voice and brings a very different sound to gospel music. The multi-talented Aerial Frederick also performed, she sings, plays the piano, teaches the hands of Praise Team and she loves to use all this talent in service to God. Sacred, a newly formed team, has a wonderful sound and we look forward to hearing them again. Last to perform, Ridgerunners Gospel Boys, feature the Bluegrass Gospel sound which has always been loved in this area and remains a favorite of old and young alike. They are a huge crowd-pleaser and their love of God and their wish to spread His word shows.

Donations given for the Kentucky Baptist Disaster Relief Fund totaled over $2,300. When you give to this organization, one hundred percent goes to help disaster victims such as the many needy people resulting from Hurricane Katrina and Rita. Administration costs are paid by the churches in the organization. We thank everyone who participated in any way! We thank God for our church and for people who are willing to work for the community and the glory of God!

Grace Baptist Church is located on Rt. 191 in Malone. We love having guests and everyone is welcome!
